TO BE AN OLYMPIAN

“A Message from
Eunice Kennedy Shriver,
President, Special Olympics”

Congratulations to all of you Special Olympians. You have fought the good fight. You have not given up. You have trained week after week, often against great odds. You have come here from more than 50 nations of the world as Olympians and we salute you.

Do you know what it means to be an Olympian? For more than 2,000 years, the Olympic Games have celebrated the athlete's endless struggle for the highest excellence possible to the human mind and body. In Special Olympics, all of you are carrying on this noble tradition.

It is the tradition of Sawao Kato of Japan and Kip Keino of Kenya; of Rafer Johnson of the United States and Dawn Fraser of Australia; of Donald Quarrie of Jamaica and Fannie Blankers-Koen of Holland. All of them Olympic Gold Medal winners.

These great athletes loved their countries, but they understood that to be an Olympian is to rise above pride in race or nationality; to look beyond medals or ribbons to the supreme satisfaction of doing one's best.

During the International Summer Special Olympics Games this week, I ask all of you to be true Olympians in everything you do—in every event you enter. Your greatest prize will be found not in headlines or in record books but in your minds and hearts, in the love of your parents and teachers and in the pride of every citizen of every nation who treasures your valor in competition and your victory in life.

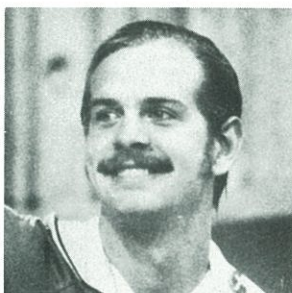

Congratulations Olympians and good luck!

FAMOUS FRIENDS OF SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Hundreds of distinguished men and women in the fields of sports, the arts, journalism and politics are loyal and devoted friends of Special Olympics. Over the years, their support and encouragement have meant much to Special Olympians and their families.
